Academy of Medical Educators

Welcome to the 2018 Spring Awards Ceremony of the Academy of Medical Educators.

The Academy of Medical Educators aims to improve patient care by providing leadership, promoting standards and supporting all those involved in the broad discipline of medical education. The Academy of Medical Educators is the professional organisation for all those involved in the training and education of doctors, dentists, and veterinary surgeons.

As part of our mission to promote and disseminate best practice in medical education, we recognise the achievements and commitment of individual medical educators in seeking to improve patient care through teaching excellence.

Jacky Hayden CBE, President

The Award of Honorary Fellowship

Honorary Fellowship is the Academy's highest award. It is intended for exceptional individuals whose contributions to medical education are often internationally recognised and who have made a significant contribution to medical education in the United Kingdom.

Professor Neil Johnson

Neil Johnson is Dean of the Faculty of Health and Medicine at the University of Lancaster. Having completed his initial medical education at Cambridge and Oxford, Neil trained in general practice. Alongside his work as a GP he took on a series of academic roles. He then moved into the leadership and management of medical training, becoming Director of Postgraduate General Practice Education at the University of Oxford in 1998 and then Postgraduate Medical Dean at the University of Leicester in 2001. Neil worked closely with the Department of Health on NHS training before moving to Warwick Medical School, ultimately becoming Pro Dean Education and Professor of Medical Education. Neil's research interests lie in medical education and he has published on a wide range of topics in the field. He is a strong supporter of the Academy and was awarded Fellowship soon after the Academy was established. Neil has served on a wide range of health-related committees at regional and national level. He is currently Chair of the General Medical Council's Medical Licensing Assessment Expert Reference Group, Chair of the Medical Schools Council Assessment Alliance Board, and a member of the GMC's Assessment Advisory Board, the UK Health Education Advisory Council and the Academy of Medical Royal Colleges Specialty Training Consultative Committee.

Professor Peter Kopelman

Peter Kopelman was the Principal of St George's, University of London from 2008-2015, the very place he began his medical training. He is an honorary consultant physician at St George's NHS Healthcare Trust.

Peter has a longstanding interest in medical education and has been a valued and influential supporter of the Academy and its work to raise standards in medical education since being a member of the first transition Council in 2006. In 2013 he was chosen to chair the Royal Pharmaceutical Society's Faculty, which leads on pharmacy professional development and recognition. He was a member of the Medical Education England Board, the governance board of the Centre for Workforce Intelligence, deputy chairman of University UK's health education research policy group and a member of the UK Higher Education Advisory Committee.

Dr Colin Melville

As Director of the General Medical Council's Education and Standards Directorate, Colin has lead responsibility for delivering its regulatory duties for all stages of medical education, advising doctors on standards of professional conduct, professional performance and on medical ethics.

Colin joined the Senior Management Team at the GMC in 2017 from his role as the Head of Lancaster Medical School. Colin has a strong background in medical education, having also held senior leadership positions at Warwick Medical School, Hull York Medical School and North Yorkshire East Coast Foundation School.

Colin is a consultant in intensive care medicine and was Medical Director for five years at Tees, East and North Yorkshire Ambulance Services.

David Russell

David Russell took on the role of lay member on the Academy of Medical Educators' Council in 2015, very quickly becoming an invaluable member of the team and an outstanding 'critical friend'; his experience outside of medical education enabling him to see objectively the benefits and potential hitches in our plans and strategies. In 2017 the Academy identified a need to meet head-on issues around fairness and representation in our community and we are grateful to David for taking on the role of chair of the newly formed Equality and Diversity group. His enthusiasm for this work resulted in the theme of today's conference Fairness and Equity in Medical Education, as well as a number of other initiatives that we hope put AoME at the vanguard of organisations within medical education recognising, enabling and promoting diversity in the profession.

As a former Deputy Headmaster, David has a strong educational and examining background. Appointed Lay Adviser to the RCGP, he worked on the development of the CSA exam. He has been responsible for training the CSA simulated 'patients', and has published several papers about his work with the role-players in the exam. He also examines for the RCS. David was awarded Honorary Fellowship of the RCGP in May 2011.
